Introduction to Watercolour Painting

Artist Karen Watson.

In watercolour the paints are made of pigments suspended in a water-based solution. Watercolor refers to both the medium and the resulting artwork. Traditionally paint is applied to watercolor paper but canvas, wood, or plastic can also be used. Learn the techniques and create your own works of art. Explore the beauty of watercolour as we render pictures of the forest, ice, flowers, pets, urban street scenes and perhaps even a portrait! The emphasis is on exploring and experimenting to discover how the paint moves and mixes.
